

Call for Nominations for Distinguished Historian Award

The Ohio Academy of History invites submissions for its annual Distinguished Historian Award. The award honors a historian whose teaching and scholarship, including substantial publications, transcend specialized fields and has an interest to educate persons beyond the discipline of history. The winner should have a close affiliation with a college, university, or historical agency of Ohio, if not actually residing in the state. The award recipient will deliver a public address during the opening evening of the annual spring meeting of the Academy and receive recognition during the spring meeting's business meeting. Nomination of worthiness for the award and a copy of the nominee's curriculum vita, must reach the committee chair by 1 December 2009
